

Friends for Animals of Metro Detroit

CASE FOR SUPPORT

WHAT MAKES THE FRIENDS UNIQUE

In 1993, Friends for Animals of Metro Detroit (FAMD) started with a small group of Dearborn residents who cared. They loved animals and wanted to help however they could. Now, more than 27 years later, that passion has helped more than 62,000 animals — 2,400-plus a year — providing thousands of dogs and cats a safe place to connect with their forever humans. And it's that same passion for helping animals and making our community a better place that keeps us moving forward today.

TRANSFORMING PASSION INTO PROGRESS

On September 18, 2018, FAMD celebrated the grand opening of its new MaryAnn Wright Animal Adoption and Education Center (AAEC). This successful Phase 1 of our development expanded our facility from 4,000 to 10,000 square feet, providing a healthier, more soothing environment for our animals and an improved experience for adopters and volunteers. And with a central location in downtown Dearborn, integrated with other public services, we're more connected with the community than ever before.

REALIZING OUR FULL POTENTIAL

Phase 2 of our capital campaign will bring all our operations into one facility, while expanding the scope of how we can help. With an additional 10,000 square feet, we will be able to offer training classes for adopters to help build successful relationships with their new pets right away. We're also launching learning programs that foster social and emotional growth through interactions with animals — like our Read to Rover program. This is a joint effort with local libraries and schools, where reluctant young readers grow their confidence through reading aloud to a nonjudgemental dog or cat. But our new space won't just give animals life-changing opportunities — it will also let us give back to the community as a job training site for special needs or employment-challenged adults/students from Mixter School, Services to Enhance Potential (STEP) and other groups.

THE URGENCY

This year, experts anticipate a 5% to 10% increase in building operation costs. And with the cost of operating two facilities until Phase 2 is completed, the sooner we can raise the funds, the faster we'll be able to help more animals and the community for less.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Your gift to Phase 2 of our capital campaign will do more than sustain our new home made possible through the first phase of our effort — it will truly build a community where people value animals, appreciate and practice respect and kindness, and enjoy the lifetime of benefits that can only come from loving and connecting with a pet. It's your chance to make more of a difference than what's humanly possible.
